The 22re is practically a bullet proof engine and is the desirable engine for these older yota trucks. Gas mileage is in the low 20's from what I've seen/read. I'm sure you could swap a 22re for your 3vze but the wiring and mounting (from what I've read on here) will be different. I have the 3vze with 113K original miles.

The reason why you are still driving that pickup / 4Runner from the 1980's is that Toyota designed them properly right out of the box. They engineered the parts the way they did for longevity and strength. They are still producing parts for your truck 30+ years later. That's also the reason that 99.9% of the parts we carry are OE.

The 1986-1993 Uhaul version seems a good fit. Specifically the 1990-93 as they are a bit newer. I have done a good bit of research about performance as well as drive train and think a 3vze 6cylinder version would be the better choice than the 22re( although the 22r is bullet proof).
