This first novel by acclaimed short-story-writer and essayist George Saunders (Tenth of December, The Brain-Dead Megaphone) will upend your expectations of what a novel should be. Saunders has said that “Lincoln in the Bardo” began as a play, and that sense of a drama gradually revealing itself through disparate voices remains in the work ...

What I hate about this novel is just how s*upidly inconsistent it is with its own world building. I'm not going to go into any details, and this isn't a spoiler, here's one example. In this novel: The main character is the son of a demi-goddess. He met an actual goddess who reincarnated him into a guy. Yet the main character is a MILITANT ATHIEST.
